2.1 Residential address check

Under the Education Act 1990, principals may require proof of address to their satisfaction in order to establish a child's entitlement to enrol in the school. However, any requests for proof of address must be reasonable in the circumstances.

Schools that are at or nearing their local enrolment buffer as calculated in accordance with sections 9.1 and 9.2 will use the following 100-point residential address check to determine the student's entitlement to enrol at the school.

Where a parent is able to give good reasons why they are unable to present documents, or in exceptional circumstances, principals may waive or vary the 100-point residential address check requirements when assessing a child's entitlement to enrol at the school. If this is to occur, principals are required to seek the approval of the Director, Educational Leadership.

Schools must note the requirements for the collection, use, disclosure and storage of personal and health information as outlined in the Application to enrol in a NSW Government school form. If a school keeps copies of the documents presented as part of the 100-point residential address check then measures need to be in place to store the documents securely, limit access to the documents, use the information only for the purpose for which it is collected or as otherwise permitted or required by law, and not collect information that is not necessary.
